We can comb through the country conditions to try to see what else there might be, but the basic problem is that it IS bad there wrt all of the standard metrics. Our strongest argument for termination, we thought, is just that it is not bad in a way clearly linked to the initial disasters prompting the designations. We can work with RU to try to get more, and/or comb through the country conditions we have again looking for positive gems, but the conditions are what they are.

Anyway, we are on our way and have cleared out our mornings to assist. Will do what we can!

I am going to send you a revision of all three memo by 10 am. We don't need them finalized, but in good shape for Dir Cissna before he meets with Sec. Duke at 4:30. The problem is that it reads as though we'd recommend an extension b/c we talk so much about how bad it is, but there's not enough in there about positive steps that have been taken since its designation.

We'll check in with you as soon as we get in. Looks like RAIO's Research Unit also got a heads up that country conditions are needed, so we can work with them to get whatever updates you need.

Seemed to us the three memos were the right docs to include to provide the country conditions and analysis on the available options. KA and I don't have those yet, though.

I suppose in the alternative, we could send the RU country conditions reports for all three countries...

Looping in USCIS.

Additional guidance from the COS.

The discussion needs to be on each individual country under consideration. Specifically, need a deep dive into the conditions of that respective country to determine if they continue to meet the statutory categories for TPS

It's important to have the two attachments, and the briefing memo is okay in terms of serving as an introduction. But she has decisions to make in the next three weeks about Honduras and Nicaragua. This briefing session needs to focus on those decisions, and it's my understanding that USCIS would like for El Salvador to be considered also (even though that decision doesn't need to be made for a couple of months). Policy and USCIS should work together to prepare briefing materials so that she can start thinking about those particular decisions and also, Haiti.

Please resubmit by 4pm tomorrow.
